

JULY 25, 2013

What's Hot: New High-Rises on the Horizon

Residential towers by leading architects take shape from coast to coast.

Huys, New York

An all-Dutch team led by designer and architect Piet Boon, landscape architect Piet Oudolf, and Netherlands-based developer Kroonenberg Groep is transforming a historic loft building at 404 Park Avenue South into 58 condo units. Prices range from $1.5 million to $11 million for the residences, which feature Bulthaup kitchens, Dornbracht kitchen and bathroom fixtures, Miele appliances, and Franke sinks. At the top of the building, an expansive roof terrace offers residents an outdoor kitchen, a trellised dining area, and lounge spaces. Completion is expected by May 2014.

Huys, 212.725.0404, huys-nyc.com

